Proceeds Benefit

The Kansas Humane Society is a private, non-profit organization that receives nearly 18,000 animals each year. Many of those pets need nothing more than a little love, quality care and a second chance. KHS specializes in those second chances by providing quality adoption services and making the best match possible between the adoptable pets and their potential new families. The Kansas Humane Society receives no local or state tax dollars, United Way funding, or support from the Humane Society of the United States. They rely on private donations and adoption fees.
